

Pupils can create their personal food pyramid based on what they eat from each food group. They can paint or draw the different foods or use pictures from magazines. Alternatively, construct a food pyramid for display in the classroom. Empty cartons, packets and packaging can be used to represent each of the different food types, which the children learn to sort/classify according to their food group.